TAC338 – right hand - $1795 with 20moa rail

The TAC actions are designed for tactical use. They can also be used for long range hunting. They are 416R stainless steel with a Remington 700 footprint and black oxide coating. The TAC 338 is specifically designed for the 338 Lapua Magnum or 378 Weatherby based cartridges. The TAC 338 is also larger than the standard TAC action. It is 0.050 larger in diameter and 0.465 longer. That is needed to accommodate the 0.750 diameter bolt that we feel is necessary for this cartridge. The TAC 338 has no feed lips and use only center feed box magazines. Bottom metal with magazines are available from many sources. The TAC 338 action uses a straight bolt handle. Screw-on bolt knob. One piece picatinny rails in 0, 20 and 40 moa offset are available. The bolt finish is black iron nitride QPQ.

The Atlas Tactical action is a Remington semi-clone action, featuring a side bolt release and trigger hanger. There is little modification necessary to use a Remington 700/40x stock or chassis.

The most rugged action possible for practical, tactical, or hunting. We use a Black Nitride finish from H&M Metal Processing. This allows you to use this action "dry" or without lubrication for extreme environments. As always it is best to use lubrication in normal day to day shooting. In addition to the Black Nitride process, a fluted bolt, to help move dirt into the flutes allowing better function of the action.

Magazine well to use the Accuracy International single stack magazines. One of the key features of this action is the TG ejector, it is a mechanical ejector that does not put any chamber pressure on the round. It is also a "never fail" setup, meaning that there are no springs to get gummed up and stop working.

Extreme Duty Bolt Stop, that bolts to the side of the action via a 6/48 screw. It is truly the most reliable bolt stop upgrade on the market!

Finish it all off with a pinned 20 MOA anodized picatinny rail, a dual pin recoil lug, and a tactical bolt knob.

~31.8 oz.
